

WEBSITE REDESIGN · BEFORE & AFTER

A calmer, more visual way to experience Avadee.

A client-ready comparison of the original public website and the current local redesign, including what was already working, what changed, and what remains to confirm before launch.

PREPARED

October 6, 2026

ORIGINAL WEBSITE

avadeecounseling.com

PROJECT STATUS

Local static redesign

What changed — and what did not

The original website already contained useful practice information, service navigation, contact details, appointment links, and a contact form. This redesign primarily changes the presentation and browsing experience; it should not be described as creating those original services or contact pathways from scratch.

THE ORIGINAL SITE

A WordPress website with practice and therapist information, a two-slide homepage feature, navigation to services and resources, phone and email links, an appointment request, FAQs, rates, and a contact form.

THE LOCAL REDESIGN

A static HTML/CSS/JavaScript experience with an editorial hero, image-card navigation, page galleries, scroll-led transitions, and responsive layouts. It is not confirmed as deployed to the live domain.

Important: The redesigned local contact form is a front-end preview only. It validates fields but does not send or store messages. Connect a secure form service before accepting online inquiries.

AT A GLANCE

AREA	ORIGINAL PUBLIC WEBSITE	CURRENT LOCAL REDESIGN
Platform	WordPress; footer identified WordPress, Genesis, and Bubbles.	Standalone HTML, CSS, and JavaScript; no backend or build step.
Homepage	Two-slide feature, “Hope Starts Today” call-to-action, and practice sections.	Editorial hero with layered imagery, scroll zoom, and navigation cards below.
Navigation	Selector with services, FAQs, rates, appointment, resources, and contact.	Visual card menus, quick links, and local page routes.
Motion	Custom scroll-zoom and image-spin page transitions were not observed on the pages reviewed.	Hero zoom, carousel interaction, image-led next-page transitions, and Back to Top.
Contact	Phone, email, appointment link, and a form with consent and a risk notice.	Phone, email, appointment link, and non-submitting form preview.
Launch scope	Privacy Policy and resource destinations were linked from the original site.	Some original destinations and the Privacy Policy link need confirmation/reinstatement.

Comparison basis: live original homepage and Contact page; original navigation and selected page headings; current local project files and browser checks. This is not a complete technical, legal, accessibility, SEO, analytics, or backend audit.

What the original website already offered

The original site was not empty or non-functional. These observations describe the public homepage and Contact page reviewed for this report.

HOMEPAGE AND PRACTICE CONTENT

- A navigation selector listing Home, About, Your Therapy, Getting Started, FAQs, Rates and Insurance, Appointment Request, Resources, Contact, and additional destinations.
- Practice logo, phone number, email address, and a link to Therapy for Black Girls.
- A slideshow with two numbered controls and a “Hope Starts Today” appointment call-to-action.
- Sections titled “In Practice,” “In Treatment,” and “My Commitment,” describing the therapist’s approach and practice message.
- Shortcuts to About, Services, FAQs, and Contact.
- Footer links to a Privacy Policy and credits identifying WordPress, Genesis Framework, Bubbles theme, and Brighter Vision.

CONTACT PAGE

- Phone and email links, introductory contact text, and an appointment-request link.
- A “Send Me Your Questions” form with required name/email, optional phone/message, consent checkbox, and Submit control.
- A visible notice explaining the risks of sending health information through unencrypted email.

The actual delivery/backend behavior of that original form was not tested for this report.

Original strengths: substantive therapist/practice information; direct contact and appointment pathways; links to services, FAQs, rates, and resources; and an explicit form-risk notice with a Privacy Policy link.

What the redesign adds or changes

The redesign keeps the counseling brand and selected practice information while adding a more visual, animated presentation across eight static HTML pages.

HOMEPAGE AND VISUAL IDENTITY

- Replaces the original slideshow presentation with a layered editorial hero and scroll-driven image zoom.
 - Introduces warm neutral colors, refined typography, and a “space to feel, room to grow” framing.
 - Adds image-card navigation beneath the homepage hero to make key destinations more visual.
-

NAVIGATION AND PAGE MOVEMENT

- Replaces the selector-led presentation with a responsive header/menu and image-card navigation.
 - Adds gallery interactions and image-led zoom transitions between pages.
 - On the detail pages, scrolling advances the image carousel; scrolling past the final image starts the next-page transition.
 - Adds a floating Back to Top control that appears after scrolling.
-

INFORMATION ARCHITECTURE

Selected content is organized into local Home, About, Your Therapy, Depression & Anxiety, Relationships, FAQs, Rates & Insurance, and Contact pages. The Rates page advises visitors to confirm current fees and coverage with the practice.

RESPONSIVE AND ACCESSIBILITY BEHAVIOR

Layouts were checked at desktop and narrow mobile widths; no horizontal overflow was observed at 320px and 390px in the tested pages. Keyboard access and reduced-motion behavior were also considered for the new controls and transitions. This does not constitute a full accessibility audit.

Local redesign structure

LOCAL PAGE	ROLE IN REDESIGNED SITE	NOTES
Home	Brand introduction and entry point.	Scroll-zoom hero followed by image-card navigation.
About	Practice introduction.	Detail-page gallery and onward page transition.
Your Therapy	Therapy approach information.	Detail-page gallery and onward page transition.
Individuals	Individual support information.	Detail-page gallery and onward page transition.
Families	Relationship/family support information.	Detail-page gallery and onward page transition.
FAQs	Answers to common questions.	Includes continuation route to Rates & Insurance.
Rates	Fees, insurance, payment, and cancellation information.	Rates/benefits should be reconfirmed before publication.
Contact	Contact details and appointment pathway.	Local form is a preview and does not submit inquiries.

The current project's main local page set contains eight pages. "About" and the service/detail pages are generated using shared page interactions; shared styling and navigation are applied across the site.

What to confirm before going live

The redesign is a local static front-end. Confirm the following with the practice/client before replacing or publishing the original website.

CONTENT / SCOPE

RESTORE OR CONFIRM MISSING DESTINATIONS

The original navigation listed Getting Started, Recent News, Mental Health Links, Physical Health Links, and Blog destinations. These do not currently have dedicated pages among the eight local main pages. Confirm which should be restored, linked externally, or intentionally retired.

PRIVACY / LEGAL

PRIVACY POLICY AND FORM HANDLING

The original footer linked to a Privacy Policy. Confirm the correct current policy and add its link to the redesigned site. The redesigned local contact form does not send/store messages; use a secure, approved submission service if a working web form is required. Avoid collecting sensitive health information through an unprotected form or email.

VERIFY BEFORE LAUNCH

PRACTICE FACTS AND OPERATIONAL DETAILS

Reconfirm the rates, insurance participation, cancellation terms, contact details, appointment URL, service descriptions, image usage rights, and current availability with the practice. These details may change and should not be assumed current based only on the redesign.

DEPLOYMENT

PRODUCTION READINESS

Confirm hosting/domain deployment, page titles and search metadata, analytics/consent needs, browser testing, accessibility, performance, backups, and redirects from existing URLs. This report does not verify a live deployment or a full audit in these areas.

Important comparison limit: No claim is made that the original website lacked mobile support, accessibility, SEO, or a functioning contact form. Those areas were not fully audited or tested for the original website.

In summary

The original Avadee Counseling website already presented meaningful practice information and established clear ways for visitors to learn about services and get in touch. The redesign's main contribution is a different visual and interaction layer: a more editorial homepage, card-based navigation, gallery interactions, and scroll-led page transitions.

The current project is a local static redesign, not a confirmed live replacement. Before launch, confirm the content and pricing, restore or intentionally retire omitted original destinations, add the current Privacy Policy, and connect an approved secure form service if online submissions are needed.

Client handoff status: Design and front-end comparison prepared. Content verification, privacy/form decisions, and production deployment remain to be confirmed with the client.

SOURCES REVIEWED

- Original Avadee Counseling homepage
- Original Avadee Counseling Contact page
- Current local project files and browser checks in the project folder.

Prepared October 6, 2026 · Website redesign comparison · This document is a project summary, not legal, clinical, privacy, or technical certification.